

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef Adds Wholesome Farms Cooperative to Their Extensive List of Retailers

DALLAS – Oct. 19, 2015 – Known for its all-natural, 100-percent grass-fed beef products, Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef partnered with local Wholesome Farms Cooperative to bring lean meat to the northern suburbs of the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex. Wholesome Farms will provide the entire selection of Chisholm Trail products including the classic ground beef as well as the spicy breakfast sausage and beef snack sticks.

“I’m committed to working with local farmers who do things the right way – with no chemicals, hormones, pesticides or genetically modified organisms, which is why Chisholm Trail is a perfect fit,” said Kristy Bundy, owner of Wholesome Farms Cooperative. “There are a lot of people who are busy, and work full time that don’t even know that there are farms very close by. These people want to eat clean, but don’t realize the loopholes that grocery stores allow for. It’s really about getting back to the small farms and really establishing a one-on-one relationship with your farmer.”

Bundy was drawn to Chisholm Trail’s 100-percent grass-fed beef that have the freedom to roam on family ranches within an hour’s drive of Dallas-Fort Worth. Chisholm Trail’s grass-fed beef is leaner than regular beef, pork and even most cuts of chicken and turkey. This grass-fed beef is rich in omega-3 fatty acids, vitamin B6, beta-carotene, zinc and other necessary nutrients with as little as 140 calories per serving.

“As the demand for more socially responsible, locally grown foods increases, we are happy to find a cooperative that is as dedicated to providing access to so many individuals in our community,” said Mike Crawford, partner of Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef.

Bundy started Wholesome Farms in 2014 when she was searching for healthy food options for her daughter who was born with severe health problems. Today, the co-op has more than 400 members and provides “truly clean food” to the area. With no minimum order requirement, nor any cooperative membership fees and with pick up in over seven cities in the metroplex every Thursday, Wholesome Farms is growing daily due to their dedication to making the process easy and accessible.

To learn more about Wholesome Farms Cooperative, visit the company’s website or join the Facebook group for additional information regarding pick-up times and locations. To find more Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef retailers visit: <http://www.eathealthybeef.org/longhorn-beef-buy.html>.

About Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef

Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef is a rancher-owned and -operated cooperative that raises longhorns locally on family ranches around Texas. Chisholm Trail cattle graze in pastures and thrive without added hormones or unnecessary antibiotics, placing far less stress on the natural environment than grain-fed cattle raised on factory farms. Chisholm Trail partners are focused on providing delicious red meat for healthy eaters and educating people on the nutritional significance of 100-percent grass-fed beef. For more information, visit www.eathealthybeef.org or connect with them on Facebook and Twitter.

###

Media Contact:

Sarah Sutton

M/C/C for Chisholm Trail Grass-fed Beef

972-480-8383 ext. 271

sarah_sutton@mccom.com